

Can I have a B please Carol?

This week we're changing the names of our boxes. By now you've probably had a little note about it.

Our box names have become a bit of a hotch potch collection. And some of them are rather rambling... So we've shortened them, so they can fit better on receipts and websites and stuff.

One of the biggest letter hogs is now called the large veg box, but it was the 'large basic organic veg box'. That's far too many letters for countdown.

Don't worry though - all of our boxes are still 100% organic – nothing has changed, only the names.

Bean counting

We know that eating with the seasons, even organically, should be good for you and good for your bank balance.

So you'll be pleased to hear that over the last few weeks our organic veg has been cheaper than a couple of the big shops that pride themselves on keeping prices down.

With seasonal boxes – you get to try something different, know it's all fairly traded, and save some pennies.

It would be, it would be so nice

If you're going away this summer, don't worry about cancelling your delivery – we can just skip your order till you get back.

Just enter your holiday dates on our website, or give us a ring and we'll do it for you.

Send us your funniest foody holiday snaps, (or bring us back a souvenir) and we'll pop it up on the blog.
